

First, do some research to identify your customers, analyze competition and local demand.