

"Dear Remas, I'm sorry you feel sad and shocked, but you need to apologize for the car that you crashed into the wall. But you know, it's not a t-shirt or a ring; it's a car. Of course, she will be mad at you, at least for a month. If you want her to forgive you, you need to fix the car and apologize to her. That's it. You will be okay, and she will forgive you. I know her; she will act cool with it. My advice is never to use expensive stuff from your friend."
