

The degree to which the firm can strategically collaborate with their supply chain partners and collaboratively manage the intra- and inter- organization processes to achieve the effective and efficient flows of – Products and services.