

File-level Storage Virtualization Provides an abstraction in the NAS/File servers environment Eliminates dependencies between the file and its location Enables movement of files between NAS systems without impacting client access IP Network Provides opportunities to optimize storage utilization Implemented using global namespace