

Chicago Sky Fans Blast Alyssa Thomas For Hurting Angel Reese. Chicago Sky fans are outraged after Connecticut Sun forward Alyssa Thomas choke-slammed Angel Reese during their Saturday showdown. After all, it was a really dangerous move from Alyssa Thomas that could have resulted to something devastating. Many slammed Thomas, noting that her action is disgraceful for the league. Another viewer shared, "From the first angle barley looked like a flagrant but from the second angle that was baddddd." A third social media user shared, "She needs some game suspensions like Draymond green that was ridiculous." She needs to be out for a couple of games. Upon review of the foul, it was upgraded to a Flagrant 2, resulting to Thomas' ejection. Sure enough, Sky fans couldn't hide their anger over what happened. Late in the third quarter while battling for a rebound, Thomas suddenly grabbed Reese from the neck while she was airborne before slamming her to the ground. "A total disgrace," a commenter wrote. "The jealousy directed at the rookies this season is ridiculous!" Many others also called for a more severe punishment.
