

This realization marks a turning point in the protagonist's perception of himself.