

Likening (comparing) a new case in question without textual evidence to an original ruling that is supported by explicit legal text if they share the same cause.