

Players alternate between defense and attack and must display endurance, agility, strength and of course, a great deal of skill on the field.