

Medical personnel and rehabilitation are viewed as essential facilitators because patients with spinal cord injuries (PWSCI) rely heavily on the information provided by the professionals.