

Students can put this idea into practice at college by carefully listening to the needs and viewpoints of their peers.