

In 2016, I went with my family to fun city. My brother and I decided to make a competition to see who jumped the highest on trampoline. We started jumping like missiles. So they put the splint in my leg. Then she took me back to hospital, and the funny thing was that they put the splint in the wrong leg.