

Structural unemployment: Arises due to structural changes in the economy of a country..It has been created through the composition of the labor force does not respond quickly to meet changing demands, technological changes or competition from imported goods and so on.