

due to lower revenues than in the prior fiscal year, the business is having significant issues in North America. The restrictions Michael Kors confronts prevent it from growing or acquiring companies in the region.