

As we know, there is direct competition, which includes competitors with the same idea of transport included in our project work. Competition cannot be involving direct competitors, making the idea of transport along the lines of the idea contained in our projects, such as taxis and transport, which is a way to reach the gain of an individual or a small group of passengers. Such as Europcar, Hertz, which is working to get the cheapest price and exclusive offers from the best car rental companies. Unlike in the case of other means of transport where a passenger bus is committed to the destination on the itinerary and chooses the passengers or station that can be accessed. For example, Passenger hires a taxi delivered to a destination chosen by the passengers.