

After the alignment stage, you can focus on analyzing your data. To sum up, modern-day RNA-seq is well established as the superior option to microarrays and will likely remain the preferred option for the time being.