

The traditional nomadic culture of Kazakhs is centered around an agro–pastoral lifestyle, where livestock such as sheep, goats and horses are herded across the steppe to search for new pastures. Other traditions include traditional cuisine, music, dance and sports as well as the doing of oral storytelling, poetry and epic tales.