

This seems like a good solution, but we don't know enough yet. For instance, which pollutants can plants remove? There are many questions. Which can't they remove?