

In conclusion, water is indispensable for human health, socioeconomic development, and cultural identity.