

The internet provides easy access to information and knowledge, which helps people learn new things quickly. On the downside, the internet can expose users to harmful content, including cyberbullying and scams.