

The system should display the user's attendance status, including name, photo, and time stamp, in real-time.