

: Stricter environmental regulations and emissions standards globally require significant investment in research and development.