

One of the most serious problems facing many developing countries especially Nigeria is the rapid and uncontrollable increase in their population.