Assurance services, attestation services, and non-assurance services differ in the level of confidence and verification they provide for users of information. Here's a summary of each category: 1.3.