

Metal – oxide nanoparticles: The desalination of saline seawater utilizing the filter membrane technique constitutes nearly 50% of the global desalination technologies for the manufacture of palatable water. In this section, various nanoparticles applied in the reverse osmosis membranes have been detailed.