

What about the importance of body language in our lives? The importance of body language is that it expresses the secrets and secrets of the human soul. But when you rub your fingers, this indicates tension and confusion. Not looking at the face of your speaker indicates a lack of self-confidence. Do you know that when you make a lot of problems with someone, it means that this person is very important to you!