

1. This representation is usually referred to as the phonetic transcription in which systems of phonetic writing are provided and aim at the accurate representation of any sequence of speech sounds.