

It is important to use the same coding system for all qualitative data, no matter where it has come from (for instance Nick could also try to identify these features, using the same terms, in his observation records).