

of course!The subject of direct employment refers to the method in which employees are recruited and employed directly by the company, some of whom are assisted in the process of recruiting for jobs, interviewing and evaluating the candidates.Direct activation is a fast and efficient process that focuses on the rapid training of the employees and their sense of belonging to the organization.