

In conclusion, everything that's done in PD1 is mainly on papers and computers. Starting from identifying the problem all the way to fully understanding how to accomplish the task, solve the problem, give a solution and set all the needed criteria that we have to follow as well as stay within the limits of the constraints, we determined a functional prototype that shows how we envisioned the final product to look like will be prepared and present it to the class instructor.