

Introduction: The global pandemic hit the business in a greater way and the change is necessary to overcome and mitigate the consequences of it. The timely change is effective for every organization, but change is hard to implement due to the conflicts of management ideas, workers' resistance toward the change, and other internal business conflicts.