Political Socialization Political socialization is a process by which background traits influence one's political views. Random Sample Random sample is a (quantitative) method of selecting from a population in which each person has an equal probability of being selected. Poll A survey of public opinion.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com