

Once, I was studying for an important exam and had a really hard time understanding a key topic. I tried reading notes and books, but I felt like I wasn't grasping the concept properly, which made me feel frustrated and anxious about the exam. Instead of continuing with the same method, I decided to look for a different approach.