

The term strengthening alludes to measures intended to the managers ability to measures intended to increment the level of self-rule and self-assurance in individuals and in networks so as to empower them to speak to their interests in a mindful and self-decided way, following up on their own power.