

In the past, weddings in the UAE were simple but meaningful affairs. The bride would wear a traditional dress, often made from local fabrics, and her hands would be decorated with intricate henna designs.