

There are many types of accidents, including: domestic, traffic, and others. Like an accident that happened to me and my family, we were walking in a valley from 10 am to 12 pm and when we were about to go, my brother told us that he forgot his headphones and my father went back in the car and the tire ran over a sharp rock and the tire exploded and there were no signal towers and we couldn't contact anyone and the valley road was deserted and no one was passing by and there was no spare tire and fortunately there was an old man passing by there and he helped us and we didn't return home until 9 pm. There are some incidents that affect people's lives in a sad and bad way and some in a funny way.
