

To provide a detailed overview of the network configuration on your computer, including IP addresses, subnet masks, default gateway, DNS servers, and other network-related settings.