

Introduction o As we all know that excess of anything can be very dangerous, in the same way, addiction of any kind can hamper one's quality of life. Addiction is curable and we must not abandon the addicted person, but rather we must help him live a better life.