

The homeland is a place of warmth, safety, and comfort, like a mother's embrace. It's where we were born, grew up, learned, and contribute to its growth. The soil of the homeland is irreplaceable, a treasure we must fiercely protect with our lives. We should strive to make our nation's flag a symbol of pride and strength on the global stage. This means preserving the environment, upholding the law, and working together to ensure our homeland thrives. We must also focus on its development in all areas, including economics, science, and society.
