

Last summer, I embarked on a journey to the serene beaches of Oman. Each day was a new adventure, from exploring the bustling souks filled with the fragrance of frankincense to diving into the rich marine life that thrived beneath the waters. The golden sands stretched endlessly, kissed by the azure waves of the Arabian Sea.