

The point of view is concerned with the shortcomings of drivers especially women whenever their car develops a mechanical fault due to ignorance or failure to locate mechanics. Several depend on the help from a relative or companion, which causes excessive pressure and time consumption. This is more so the case given the increased complexity of today's vehicles and general lack of trust in available services.