

Climate change impact Egypt is one of the countries affected by climate change impacts, within its borders and outside its borders, within the whole Nile Basin. Moreover, increasing temperatures and consequently sea level rise will lead to seawater intrusion in the coastal groundwater aquifers. However, Khordagui (2007) expected that the Nile water would be decreased by 20% over the next 50 years.