

Depending on your privacy and security considerations, web browsers offer different options. For instance, there are browsers that offer more private browsing options, like Opera, or browsers that focus on security, think Firefox.