

We're talking about small groups in which the difference between knowledge, applied knowledge, and practice starts to break down.