n the digital age, cyberbullying has been a widespread issue, particularly affecting young people.Moreover, the impact of cyberbullying on young people can lead to mental health issues, there is a strong correlation between cyberbullying and mental health problems, including increased stress, anxiety & depression.