

Mediolateral Episiotomy: This incision technique involves a downward and outward cut from the center of the fourchette, either to the right or left. The cut extends diagonally in a straight line approximately 2.5 centimeters away from the anus, aiming towards the midpoint between the anus and the ischial tuberosity.