if you move the north pole of the magnet closer to the conductor, the magnetic field passing through the conductor also increases and it will inducing a positive voltage in the wire.

Summarized by © lakhasly.com