

Caitlin Clark's Iowa coach addresses Kate Martin clash: It is amazing. Former Iowa Hawkeyes coach Lisa Bluder has spoken with immense pride at seeing Caitlin Clark and Kate Martin facing off against one another in the WNBA. Many regard Wilson as the best player currently in the WNBA and she racked up 29 points and 15 rebounds to lead the Las Vegas Aces to a 99–80 win over the Indiana Fever. Clark scored eight points on 2–of–8 shooting (2 of 5 from the 3–point line) and had seven assists and five rebounds to go with six turnovers. Clark and Martin were teammates for the Hawkeyes last season and now they are playing for the Indiana Fever and the Las Vegas Aces respectively. They became good friends on and off the court whilst at Iowa together, often being labelled as best friends. Perhaps the person with the most pride and happiness at seeing Clark and Martin on the court together was their former coach, Bluder. That is her lowest return in a pro game, having previously averaged 16.7 points. She was in attendance at the game. Perhaps in an effort to protect her from tough questions, Clark was not made available to the media after the defeat.
