

Thank you for providing such insightful explanations. It's clear that psychologists contribute significantly to different aspects of individuals' and communities' well-being.