

3 The study aims to compare the Japanese and American method in strategic cost management, by presenting the foundations on which the strategic cost management tools developed in Japan and the United States of America are based .And to highlight the points of similarity and difference between them, using the descriptive approach to present these tools and the comparative method in order to identify the points of similarity and points of difference.