In a democratic setting, by contrast, resolving conflict is complicated and generally takes a good deal of time.Our argument is probabilistic: old democracies are more likely than new democ– racies and authoritarian regimes to have strong institutions

Summarized by © lakhasly.com